Michael Downey
President & CEO
Tennis Canada

On behalf of Tennis Canada and the Board of Directors, welcome to the Hollyburn Country Club for the 2022 Odlum Brown VanOpen. As one of the largest tournaments held in Canada, the Odlum Brown VanOpen offers more than $274,000 in prize money for both the men's ATP Challenger 125 and women's WTA 125 tournaments. After a two-year hiatus due to the repercussions caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, the tournament's organizing committee has done an incredible job to bring back this event in 2022 and to improve the tournament experience for the players, fans and partners. The Odlum Brown VanOpen is the first Canadian event to win the ATP Challenger of the Year Award (2017 & 2018), as voted by the players. The organizing committee can feel very proud of what they have accomplished, and we know that they will continue to go above and beyond for years to come.

Tennis in British Columbia and across Canada is gaining in popularity. The dedication and hard work of everyone involved have made the return of the Odlum Brown VanOpen a great success. Since the first tournament in 2002, this event has provided fans in Western Canada with a world-class tournament and hosted talented players. Furthermore, the Odlum Brown VanOpen provides Canadian players with the chance to play on home soil and earn important ranking points.

“ Since the first tournament in 2002, this event has provided fans in Western Canada with a world-class tournament and hosted talented players.”

We would like to recognize the tournament's loyal title partner, Odlum Brown Limited, host, Hollyburn Country Club, and all the volunteers for your commitment to organizing such a fantastic event.

Enjoy the high-quality tennis this week. There will surely be many competitive matches as the players will all be fighting for a chance to capture the Odlum Brown VanOpen trophy!

Peter Kruyt
Chair of the Board of Directors
Tennis Canada

On behalf of the staff, partners and volunteers of the largest professional tennis tournament in Western Canada, WE ARE BACK! Welcome to the 2022 Odlum Brown VanOpen! After two years away, we're delighted to once again welcome these world-class athletes back to Vancouver and to have our fans share in what we believe is the greatest Odlum Brown VanOpen ever. In addition to the thrilling on-court action, this year's tournament features numerous activities and special events each day for tennis fans of all ages.

An event this big is only possible with the generous support of our partners and volunteers. I especially want to thank our title partner, Odlum Brown Limited, for playing a key role in supporting this important tournament. I also want to thank our many other corporate partners, patrons, supporting tennis clubs, officials, volunteers and ball crew for their help in making the Odlum Brown VanOpen possible and for supporting tennis in Canada.

Last, but certainly not least, my sincere gratitude to Tennis BC's Girls in Action outreach program and CLICK (Contributing to Lives of Inner City Kids). These two grassroots community initiatives use tennis as a tool to help youth achieve their potential. It is our privilege at the VanOpen to support these two valuable organizations.

I'd like to extend a warm and friendly Canadian welcome to all the players, fans, partners, friends and families to our 2022 Odlum Brown VanOpen, hosted at the prestigious Hollyburn Country Club. We missed hosting our award-winning event over the last two years because of COVID-related cancellations and are extremely happy to welcome our fans and the tennis community back!

Our team processed the feedback and suggestions from fans, players and staff over the past few years, and now we are thrilled to announce the addition of the fan favourite "Electronic Line Calling Challenge System" for matches on Centre Court. In addition, we have upgraded both men's and women's events to a higher tier and status, which offers players more prize money and crucial world ranking points.

We have a proud history at this event with many notable alumni including former World No. 1s Andy Murray, Naomi Osaka and Maria Sharapova, former World No. 4 Johanna Konta and No. 8 Marcos Baghdatis. Additionally, top Canadian players Leylah Annie-Fernandez, Felix Auger-Aliassime, Milos Raonic, Vasek Pospisil, Bianca Andreescu, Rebecca Marino, Gabriela Dabrowski and Eugenie Bouchard have all played our tournament. As a 10-year Odlum Brown VanOpen alumnus myself, I can say, from a player's perspective, that the hospitality, location and professionalism make our event one of the most memorable worldwide, and one many players mark early in their calendar to play.

I wish all the best to our participants and fans. Enjoy the tennis!

THE ODLUM BROWN VANOPEN

The Odlum Brown VanOpen is part of the ATP Challenger Tour and WTA and is supported by Tennis Canada. It is the largest and most celebrated Men's and Women's professional tennis tournament in Western Canada and the Pacific Northwest.

In 2022 the tournament returns, after a two-year hiatus due to the Covid-19 pandemic, bigger than ever and with an upgrade to a combined ATP Challenger Tour 125 and WTA 125 event.

The tournament has received back-to-back honours winning the 2017 and 2018 ATP Challenger of the Year awards — one of only three recipients — as voted on by the players. There are currently 189 ATP Challenger tournaments scheduled for 2022.

The 2022 Odlum Brown VanOpen has an experienced team dedicated to producing a high-quality tennis tournament, bringing added value to our partners and creating lasting memories for fans through new on-site initiatives and interactions. New this year, the tournament is implementing electronic line calling on Centre Court, sponsored by Fulmer & Company. With the increased caliber of tennis we expect to see, we wanted to bring in an additional tool to support the players on the court.

The Odlum Brown VanOpen would not be possible without our incredible group of tournament partners, led by Odlum Brown Limited. Their dedication to this important tennis event is inspiring.

COMMUNITY DAY 2022

CELEBRATING FOUR YEARS OF HELPING YOUTH ACHIEVE THEIR POTENTIAL

A large group of young people from Tennis BC's Girls in Action outreach program and from CLICK: Contributing to Lives of Inner City Kids took to the courts at Hollyburn Country Club on Saturday, June 11th as part of the fourth annual Odlum Brown VanOpen Community Day presented by Birds Nest Properties.

"It is fantastic to have our first Community Day since 2019 after being impacted by the pandemic for the past two years. There's so much joy in seeing the positive impact on the youth who take part," said Odlum Brown VanOpen Chair Carlota Lee. "A number of these kids face hurdles every day and to help them even a little bit is a proud feeling."

The fun-filled event saw youth take part in a morning of tennis provided by Hollyburn Country Club tennis coaches and Odlum Brown VanOpen Tournament Director and former ATP Tour pro Rik de Voest.

"When these young people have their confidence built up, and the guidance to reach for their dreams, they can achieve anything. We are thrilled to be part of Odlum Brown VanOpen Community Day and play a role in helping these youth on the right path," said Jonathan Low, Managing Broker of Birds Nest Properties, which is the presenting partner of the Odlum Brown VanOpen Community Day. "Tennis BC Girls in Action and CLICK presenting these kids with opportunities they might not be able to experience otherwise is very commendable."

In addition to having a lot of fun on the tennis courts, attending youth also heard Tennis Canada Head of HighPerformanceforWesternCanada, Oded Jacob, National junior champions Joyce Geng, Gary Jiang, and Owen Nguyen, and High Performance program players Barbora Bulinova and Daniel Dong each share stories of how to overcome adversity, set and achieve goals, and make dreams become reality.

"This community day of tennis instruction is a wonderful opportunity to offer a new experience to these students. The CLICK team is grateful to the Odlum Brown VanOpen, Birds Nest Properties, and other supporting partners for inviting us to take part," said CLICK President Brenda Penton. "With one in five of Vancouver's children living in poverty, caring community partners are critical to CLICK's efforts to offer these kids opportunities for a successful future."

“When these young people have their confidence built up, and the guidance to reach for their dreams, they can achieve anything.”

“Odlum Brown VanOpen Community Day has become a much-anticipated event for the Girls in Action program. We are so grateful for the continued support from the Odlum Brown VanOpen to keep programs like the Girls in Action going,” added Tennis BC spokesperson Jeannie Rohr. “Participation in sport is a protective factor and the more opportunities for children to participate, the more likely they will make better choices in life.”

The Odlum Brown VanOpen would like to thank Birds Nest Properties for being Community Day presenting partner as well as the following supporting partners for their contributions: T-shirt Printing Company, which provided shirts for everyone, Fresh St. Market for the BBQ lunch, HEAD for supplying tennis rackets, and Hollyburn Country Club for hosting the event.

All the youth went home with prizes donated from: Hollyburn Country Club Sports Boutique, Babolat, London Drugs, Superstore, A&W, Kidsbooks, F45 Lonsdale, and Supernova Salon.

PACIFIC TENNIS CENTRE IN BURNABY

Tennis Canada is investing in growing the sport of tennis in British Columbia through supporting athletes at all levels, developing much-needed sports infrastructure, and delivering competitive opportunities, including attracting world-class events like the Odium Brown VanOpen. And a key part of this strategy is to build a new state-of-the-art facility: the Pacific Tennis Centre (PTC).

British Columbia has boasted the highest rates of participation in tennis across the country for a long time. However, the province faces a severe lack of infrastructure preventing players from participating in tennis year-round at an affordable cost.

While municipalities are all reporting waitlists for use of their covered facilities, there is not a publicly accessible, affordable, all-weather facility in BC that is focused on delivering a full spectrum of community racquet sports programming; including programming for competitive wheelchair and junior tennis athletes.

The PTC will meet this need in BC

The PTC is a proposed tennis and racquet sports facility that will be Tennis Canada's flagship centre in Western Canada, delivered in partnership with Tennis BC and the City of Burnaby.

The facility will be a world-class, community-serving tennis centre that is inclusive and accessible, helping grow tennis as a sport and meeting the needs of a healthy, active British Columbia and Western Canada. Located in Burnaby, the PTC will also serve as the new home for the National Junior Training Program, and the first and only home for the National Wheelchair Tennis Program, with over 80% of the court time available for affordable, year-round use for the community. The PTC will become a provincial hub that will deliver inclusive programs for all members of the community, regardless of their income, and support other racquet sports, like pickleball and badminton, across BC and Western Canada.

Once fully completed, the PTC will feature 12 covered courts, up to 14 outdoor courts, including hard and clay, as well as dedicated pickleball courts.

When the federal and provincial government confirm funding for Phases I and II, courts could be open to the public in just over a year with the proper financial backing.

CARLOTA LEE

OUR SUPERWOMAN!

Anyone who knows Odlum Brown VanOpen chair Carlot Lee knows she is busy. However, since the last tournament three years ago, she's taken it to another level and helped thousands of people along the way, all as we navigated a global pandemic.

In July 2019, Carlot was diagnosed with Parkinson's Disease and immediately became an advocate for those battling the disorder. She joined PD Avengers, a worldwide group of people with Parkinson's, along with their families and friends, all standing together to change how Parkinson's is seen and treated.

Carlot also helped raise $425,000 for the Pacific Parkinson's Research Institute at UBC, her alma mater, through their Porridge for Parkinson's breakfast fundraiser. From that fundraiser, she connected HealthTech Connex, a medical technology company, with the Pacific Parkinson's Research Institute to fund around $300,000 for an important study on brain stimulation technology taking place right now.

On top of the incredible amount of money and awareness raised, Carlot is currently helping put together a Women for Parkinson's Committee for Parkinson Canada and will oversee the BC Chapter.

Additionally, she and her husband Derek co-chaired a capital campaign to raise $5.5 million for Capilano University's Centre for Childhood Studies. Earlier this spring, Carlot received an honorary Doctor of Letters, honoris causa from Capilano University, the highest form of recognition the university grants.

Despite the disease having progressed since her diagnosis, Carlot continues to fight Parkinson's and is determined to prove her neurologist wrong. She always keeps up with Parkinson's research and continues to advocate for and help with Parkinson Canada and the Pacific Parkinson's Research Institute.

Although she can't play tennis anymore and taking care of herself is almost a full-time job, Carlot's positive attitude and energy remain infectious. She maintains a passion for friends and family, and for running Western Canada's largest tennis tournament: the Odlum Brown VanOpen.

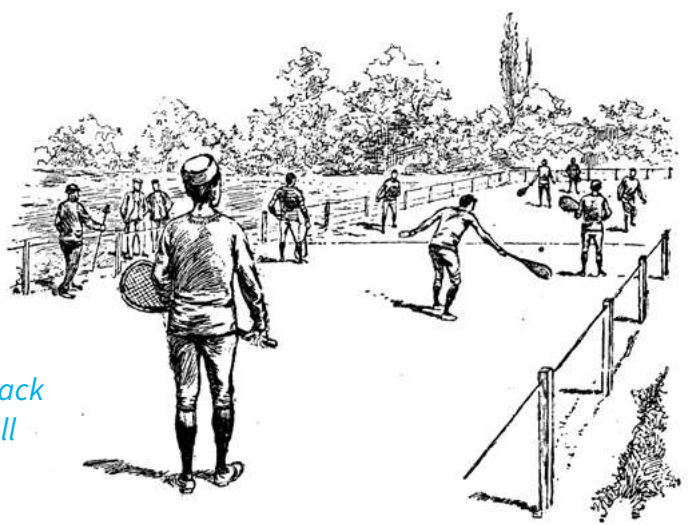

Carlot encourages everyone to help end Parkinson's Disease by becoming a PD

Avenger at pdavengers.com. Their goal is to get a million people signed up before the end of the year.

GAME, SET, FACT

The origins of tennis can be traced back to a 12th–13th century French handball game.

The very first tennis balls date back to the 15th century and were made of a variety of materials, mostly leather stuffed with human and horsehair or wool. Scottish craftsmen used the stomach of a sheep or goat wrapped with wool and tied with rope. In the 18th century, strips of wool were tightly wound around a nucleus made of cork. Tennis balls with cork cores and cloth covering are still used in the original game of tennis, known as Real Tennis.

In 1874, Londoner Major Walter C. Wingfield patented equipment and rules for a game fairly similar to modern-day tennis. Wingfield's original court was in the shape of an hourglass, narrowing at the net, and it was shorter than the standards for today's courts.

Scotland's King James I. enjoyed playing tennis but kept losing tennis balls in the sewage drain at the corner of the court at the Blackfriars Monastery, so he ordered it sealed. A short time later, assassins would break in and King James would find himself stuck, helplessly restrained behind the newly installed grate. He was subsequently caught and murdered.

The term “love” used in the scoring system of tennis is said to have originated from the French word for egg “l’oeuf,” because a zero on a scoreboard resembles an egg. However, the true origin is unknown.

Between the 15th century and 1965 all tennis racquets were made from wood. They were commonly strung with cow intestines that had been twisted and stretched to create a high-tension elastic surface on the head of the racquet.

Historical Racquet Image: protennistips.net/history-of-tennis

Wimbledon once used white tennis balls. But they were replaced with yellow balls in 1986 to make them more visible to TV cameras.

The tiebreak was invented by James Van Alen in 1965. There were originally two types: sudden death which would end after a maximum of 9 points were played, and lingering death, which saw the winner as the first to reach at least 7 points and win with a margin of at least 2 points.

The Real Hawkeye Rufus, a Harris Hawk, is stationed at Wimbledon to keep its sky clear of local pigeons.

Strangely enough, no one quite seems to know why the carving of a pineapple crowns Wimbledon's 18.5 inch high men's singles trophy. One theory suggests it is because British Navy captains put pineapples atop their gateposts upon their return home from sea.

The longest match by far for Professional Tennis was the 2010 Wimbledon first round match-up between John Isner and Nicolas Mahut — Isner eventually beat Mahut 6-4, 3-6, 6-7(7), 7-6(3), 70-68. The match took 11 hours and 5 minutes spanning over three days and playing 183 games.

The longest recorded point took 29 minutes and crossed the net 643 times. This epic rally took place in a women's single match between Vicki Nelson and Jean Hepner on September 24, 1984, at a Virginia Slims tournament in Richmond, VA, USA.

In the 1987 U.S Open, tennis star Chris Evert asked the officials to stop the game because her diamond bracelet had come unclasped and fallen on the court. She asked for time to search for and retrieve her bracelet. Since that time, the bracelet has been referred to as a "tennis bracelet."

Tennis first reached the Olympics in 1896.

It's believed that the word tennis is derived from an earlier version of the game played by monks in the 12th century. Their version of the game involved throwing and catching a ball while shouting 'tenez,' which means to take heed.

A player is said to have won a Career Grand Slam if they win all four majors at any time during their career; a Non Calendar-Year Grand Slam if they win the four majors consecutively, but not in the same year, and a Grand Slam if they win all four majors in a single year.

The loudest grunt, which reached 105 decibels, came from Maria Sharapova in 2009 during Wimbledon.

John Isner holds the ATP's official record for the fastest serve at 253 km/h, however the fastest serve ever recorded is an astonishing 263 km/h in 2021 by Sam Groth. It isn't recognized by the ATP as it came at a Challenger event, and they do not formally recognize speeds set at that level. Sam Groth was set to play in the 2017 VanOpen, but had to withdraw due to an unexpected neck injury. Georgina Garcia holds the title for the women's fastest serve at 220 km/h.

The fuzzy covering on a tennis ball is known as The Nap. The felt nylon or fuzziness on the ball is a drag force on the court. The reason for it is to slow down the ball.

The Arthur Ashe Stadium in New York City is the biggest tennis-only venue in the world with a capacity of 23,771. It is named after tennis great Arthur Ashe who won three grand slam titles.

The youngest player to ever win at Wimbledon was Martina Hingis (SWE) when she was partnered with Helena Sukova in 1996 when the pair took the doubles title. She was only 15!

Daniel Nestor and Sebastien Lareau were Canada's first Canadians to ever win a medal in tennis at the Olympics. The team paired up in Sydney in 2000 to beat Australia's Todd Woodbridge and Mark Woodforde in a thrilling two and a half hour match.

There are three main types of tennis courts: grass courts, hard courts and clay courts. Wimbledon is played on grass courts, the French Open is played on clay courts, and the U.S. Open and the Australian Open both use hard courts.
